

ABC Technologies Pvt. Ltd.

Employee Leave Policy

Policy Name: Employee Leave Policy

Policy Version: 1.0

Effective Date: 1 January 2026

Leave Year: 1 January to 31 December

1. Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to define the leave entitlements, eligibility requirements, application procedures, approval process, and rules for managing employee leave at ABC Technologies Pvt. Ltd.

The company believes that employees need appropriate time away from work for rest, personal responsibilities, health-related situations, family events, and other important circumstances.

This policy is designed to provide a consistent process for requesting and approving leave while ensuring that business operations continue smoothly.

2. Scope

This policy applies to all full-time employees of ABC Technologies Pvt. Ltd.

Employees working under contractual arrangements may be governed by the terms of their individual contracts.

Employees must follow the leave application and approval process described in this policy unless an emergency prevents them from doing so.

3. Types of Leave

ABC Technologies provides the following categories of leave:

1. Earned Leave (EL)
2. Casual Leave (CL)
3. Sick Leave (SL)
4. Maternity Leave
5. Paternity Leave
6. Bereavement Leave
7. Marriage Leave
8. Leave Without Pay (LWP)

Each type of leave has different eligibility requirements and approval rules.

4. Earned Leave (EL)

Employees are entitled to 18 days of Earned Leave during a calendar year.

Earned Leave is intended primarily for planned vacations, personal activities, extended family commitments, and other situations where employees require planned time away from work.

Earned Leave is accrued at a rate of 1.5 days per completed month of service.

Employees joining during the year will receive Earned Leave on a prorated basis.

Employees should normally apply for Earned Leave at least seven calendar days before the planned start date.

For leave of more than five consecutive working days, employees should provide sufficient notice to their reporting manager so that work can be planned appropriately.

Unused Earned Leave may be carried forward to the following year subject to the company's maximum accumulation limit of 30 days.

Earned Leave may be encashed only when permitted by the company's applicable rules and procedures.

5. Casual Leave (CL)

Employees are entitled to 8 days of Casual Leave per calendar year.

Casual Leave is intended for short-term personal requirements, urgent family matters, appointments, or other unforeseen personal situations.

Casual Leave is credited on a prorated basis for employees who join during the year.

Employees should normally submit a Casual Leave request at least one working day before the planned absence.

In emergencies, employees may inform their reporting manager as soon as reasonably possible.

Casual Leave can normally be taken for a maximum of two consecutive working days at a time.

Unused Casual Leave cannot normally be carried forward to the next leave year.

Casual Leave is not normally eligible for encashment.

6. Sick Leave (SL)

Employees are entitled to 8 days of Sick Leave per calendar year.

Sick Leave is intended for situations where an employee is unable to work because of illness, injury, medical treatment, or recovery.

Employees should inform their reporting manager as soon as possible when they are unable to attend work because of illness.

For sickness lasting more than two consecutive working days, the company may request appropriate medical documentation.

Sick Leave is credited on a prorated basis for employees joining during the year.

Unused Sick Leave normally expires at the end of the leave year and cannot be encashed.

If an employee becomes sick while already on another approved leave category, the employee should contact HR to determine whether the leave category can be changed.

7. Maternity Leave

Eligible employees may apply for maternity leave in accordance with applicable laws and company procedures.

The employee should notify the HR department as early as reasonably possible so that appropriate work planning and leave processing can be completed.

Required medical or supporting documents should be submitted to HR when requested.

The duration, eligibility, benefits, and other conditions of maternity leave will be governed by applicable legislation and company rules.

Where applicable, employees may also discuss flexible work arrangements with HR and their manager.

8. Paternity Leave

Eligible employees may apply for paternity leave following the birth or adoption of a child, subject to the company's applicable policy.

Paternity Leave must normally be used within six months of the relevant event unless an exception is approved by HR.

Employees should provide reasonable advance notice whenever possible.

The employee may be required to provide supporting documentation to HR.

9. Bereavement Leave

Employees may request Bereavement Leave following the death of an immediate family member.

The company provides up to five working days of paid Bereavement Leave per qualifying event.

Immediate family members generally include a spouse, child, parent, or sibling.

The employee should inform the reporting manager and HR as soon as reasonably possible.

Supporting documentation may be requested where required for administrative purposes.

10. Marriage Leave

Employees may request up to five working days of Marriage Leave for their own marriage.

Marriage Leave can normally be used once during the employee's period of employment with the company.

Employees should submit the request at least 30 days before the planned leave whenever possible.

The leave request should include the proposed dates of absence so that the manager can plan workload and project responsibilities.

11. Leave Without Pay (LWP)

Leave Without Pay may be granted when an employee has insufficient paid leave balance or when the requested absence does not qualify under another leave category.

LWP requires approval from the reporting manager and HR.

During LWP, salary will not normally be payable for the approved unpaid period.

Employees should understand that extended LWP may affect certain employment benefits or payroll calculations according to applicable company rules.

12. Leave Application Process

Employees must submit leave requests through the company's designated HR or leave management system.

A leave request should contain:

- Employee name

- Leave type
- Start date
- End date
- Number of leave days
- Reason for leave
- Supporting documents, where required

The reporting manager will review the request based on employee leave balance, business requirements, project deadlines, and team availability.

HR may review the request when required.

Employees should not assume that leave has been approved merely because a request has been submitted.

Leave is considered approved only after the request receives the required approval.

13. Emergency Leave

In an emergency situation, an employee may be unable to submit a leave request before the absence.

In such cases, the employee should inform the reporting manager or HR as soon as reasonably possible.

The employee must submit the leave request in the HR system after the immediate emergency has been addressed.

The company will determine the appropriate leave category based on the circumstances and available leave balance.

14. Half-Day Leave

Employees may request half-day leave where the leave category permits it.

A half-day leave is normally calculated as 0.5 leave day.

Employees must clearly indicate whether they are requesting leave for the first half or second half of the working day.

The manager may approve or reject the request based on business requirements.

15. Holidays and Weekly Offs

Company-declared public holidays and approved weekly offs are not normally deducted from an employee's leave balance.

If an employee takes leave immediately before or after a holiday, the holiday will normally remain classified as a holiday.

Employees should refer to the official annual holiday calendar published by HR.

16. Leave During Probation

Employees on probation may request leave according to their available leave balance and applicable company rules.

Leave during probation should be planned carefully because employees may have onboarding, training, or project responsibilities.

Emergency and health-related leave will be considered based on the circumstances.

The reporting manager and HR may review frequent or extended leave during probation.

17. Leave Cancellation

An employee may request cancellation of approved leave if the leave is no longer required.

The cancellation request should be submitted through the HR system.

The manager must approve the cancellation.

Once cancellation is approved, the corresponding leave balance will be restored according to the system's leave processing rules.

18. Leave Extension

Employees who need to extend approved leave must inform their reporting manager before the original leave period ends whenever possible.

The employee must submit an additional leave request for the extension.

The extension is subject to available leave balance and manager approval.

Failure to obtain approval for an extension may result in the additional absence being treated as unauthorized absence or Leave Without Pay.

19. Unauthorized Absence

An employee who remains absent without informing the company or obtaining the required approval may be considered unauthorized absent.

Unauthorized absence may result in salary deduction and may be subject to disciplinary action according to company rules.

Employees should contact their manager or HR immediately if they are unable to follow the normal leave application process.

20. Leave Balance

Employees can view their available leave balance through the company's HR management system.

The system records:

- Leave entitlement
- Leave used
- Pending leave requests
- Approved leave
- Cancelled leave
- Remaining balance
- Carry-forward balance

Employees are responsible for checking their leave balance before submitting planned leave requests.

21. Leave Approval

Leave approval depends on several factors, including:

- Available leave balance
- Business requirements
- Project deadlines
- Team availability
- Employee responsibilities
- Previous leave usage
- Required supporting documents

Managers should review leave requests fairly and consistently.

For critical project periods, managers may discuss alternative dates with employees.

22. Year-End Leave Processing

At the end of the leave year, the HR department will process unused leave balances according to the applicable rules.

Earned Leave may be carried forward subject to the maximum accumulation limit.

Unused Casual Leave and Sick Leave normally expire at the end of the leave year.

Employees should review their leave balances before the end of the year and plan eligible leave accordingly.

23. General Rules

Employees must follow the company's leave application process.

Employees must provide accurate information when applying for leave.

Employees must not use another employee's account to submit or approve leave.

Managers must not approve leave when doing so would violate applicable company rules or legal requirements.

HR may request additional information when required to process a leave request.

The company reserves the right to modify this policy when business requirements, applicable laws, or organizational procedures change.

24. Policy Questions

Employees who have questions regarding leave entitlement, leave balance, eligibility, approval, or supporting documentation should contact the HR department.

HR will provide clarification based on the employee's circumstances and the applicable company policy.
